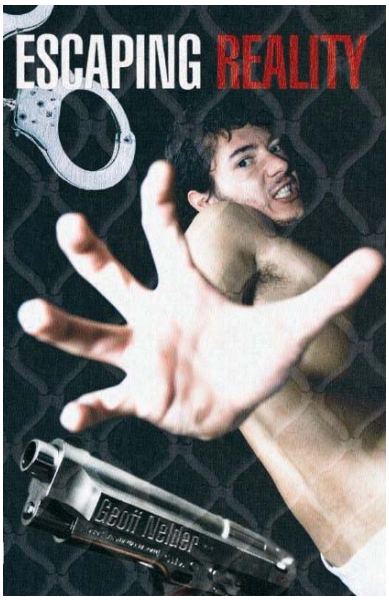
Escaping Reality by Geoff Nelder



The squashed nose on a wet pavement, followed by a brutal yet comic internment lead our hero to a gut-wrenching escape. A dangerous winter trek across the Northumberland Moors, even with a shocking surprising amorous interlude to raise the temperature a little, helps our criminal to survive however he can in the backstreets of Cumbrian towns. But he can't just hide, he has to find out who is after him and what he discovers is more than is good for him.

Keeping just in front of a devious assassin, his frequently changed identity crosses to Amsterdam where he gets his friends into trouble. Can he find out what is really going on? Can you find out before him? The clues are all here.

Genre: Thriller / Humour Readership: Consumer

Marketing & Publicity: Extensive key word search engine promotion on the Internet. Retailer marketing. Posters available.

Reviews: Extracts from M. Kenyon Cherboneaux US editor:

"...another grand joyride of a read...
wondrously funny sex scenes, great conversations full of patented Nelder quips."

"...typical Nelder twisted humour, complex and intriguing plan and wonderful writing..."

"...hell of a twister of a mystery."

"Escaping Reality is more complicated than it looks at first glance. It'll keep you guessing, sometimes cringing for poor Gerry, and always laughing from start to finish."

Author Information: Geoff Nelder: a freelance writer living in Chester, UK with his long-suffering wife and two occasional lodgers: his grown-up children.

Short stories accepted for publication by several ezines, small-press Crystal: the magazine for Writers and won a commendation for a story in the Ron Hubbard Writers of the Future Competition. He won first prize in the Café Doom short story competition in 2005.

Published: July 2005 Territory: World
ISBN: 095495632X Pages: 228
Format & Size: Paperback 203x127mm Price: £7.99

Brambling Books

Eaglescliffe Logistics Centre, Durham Lane,
Stockton-on-Tees, Cleveland, TS16 0RW (UK)
Tel: +44(0)1642 356137
www.bramblingbooks.co.uk info@bramblingbooks.co.uk